Indiana's Great Southwest Celebrates Regional Cities Day at Statehouse

In an occasion to celebrate the progress in the three regions selected as Regional Cities, the Indiana Economic Development Corporation (IEDC) invited recipients, including Indiana's Great Southwest, to the Indiana Statehouse on February 15 to report on the status of projects, communicate the collaborative benefits of the program and to thank Governor Holcomb, the Indiana Legislature and the IEDC for their vision and support of this transformative initiative.

Beth McFadin Higgins, President of the Southwest Indiana Regional Development Authority, specifically shared how the Regional Cities funding is helping strengthen the region's economic core; and, by doing so, positioning Indiana's Great Southwest to attract talent and business.
